Groovy performance set to entertain Marina visitors this Sunday

Marina visitors can expect an afternoon of groovy tunes this Sunday when Sydney act Groove Standards perform at Gladstone Ports Corporation's (GPC's) FREE Sunday Sessions at the Marina.

The duo are sure to get toes tapping with their repertoire of funky instrumental style music from 12-3pm near the playground area adjacent to the Marina's Information Centre.

With the playground only metres away and a visit from GPC's mascot Curtis the Turtle, the kids will also be kept amused throughout the performance.

GPC Community Relations Coordinator Lorelei van Dalen said the Sunday Sessions have really encouraged the community to make the most of the fabulous recreational facilities that GPC provides.

"We are now looking ahead to 2009 and would love to hear from local performers interested in participating in next year's Sunday Sessions program," Ms van Dalen said.

Sunday Sessions at the Marina provides a fun, affordable and family friendly way to spend the last Sunday of every month, offering community members and visitors the opportunity enjoy a variety of live performances in the beautiful surrounds of Gladstone's favourite foreshore parklands.

For all Sunday Sessions enquiries, please contact GPC's Community Relations department on 4976 1627.
